W G Hart Workshop 2002
Ideas of Obligations and Property in Law

Monday 1 July – Wednesday 3 July
Venue: Institute of Advanced Legal Studies

The aim of the 2002 WG Hart Workshops is to consider the tensions within the laws of property and of obligations. The proper delineation and categorisation of these subjects is keenly contested not only within the established categories of contract law, tort law, property law and so forth, but also in other fields which rely heavily on these fundamental concepts: in particular company law, family law, intellectual property law, commercial law, and even welfare law. Added to these long-standing debates about the nature of property and obligations in law and in equity are questions about their relationship to human rights law and legal theory.

The three-day WG Hart Workshops will be divided between plenary lecture sessions and smaller workshops on particular topics. The subject matter will be divided between the laws of property and obligations as properly understood before focusing on a range of subject areas on the second day and more specifically on the nature of the company on the final day.

The academic directors of the Workshops, who are both from the School of Law, University of London, Mile End Road, London E1 4NS (fax: 020 8981 8733), are:
Dr Alastair Hudson, Reader in Equity and Law (a.hudson@qmul.ac.uk)
Dr Alan Dignam, Senior Lecturer in Law (a.dignam@qmul.ac.uk)

If you are simply interested in attending the Workshop, please register your interest with: Belinda Crothers, Academic Assistant, IALS (fax: 020 7862 5850; email: Belinda.Crothers@sas.ac.uk).
